

DMACC student government election slated for week of Oct. 9-13

by Dianne Petersen
Student Senate elections will be held the week of Oct. 9-13, with all offices up for grabs. Any full time student is eligible to run and hold office.

Nomination petitions can be obtained in the Student Affairs office, Bldg. 7, the week of Sept. 25.

Petitions must be returned to the Student Affairs office with the required number of signatures by 5 p.m. on Sept. 29.

"We hope to generate more student participation this year. Student Senate represents the students so the students should be involved by either running for an office or by voting," commented Gail Van Pelt, of the Student Affairs office with Mike Hummel, present student body president adding, "I'd like to see 1,000 votes cast."

Last year's balloting resulted in a mere 8.4% of the student body voting. 381 votes were cast.

To create more interest, the Senate has allotted $5.00 per nominee to use in advertising or campaigning. The Student Senate has also distributed a pamphlet that tells the "bows" and "whys" of the Student Senate organization.

Open campaigning will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Oct. 4, in the cafeteria to acquaint the students with those running, as well as allowing those running for office to state their platforms.

This year votes will be cast in the conventional voting booth rather than sitting on the couch in the Student Affairs office. Depending upon the number of candidates on the ballot, two voting machines from the Polk County Board of Elections may also be used.

Voting to fill the vacant offices will take place in Bldgs. 2, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 15, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., Oct. 9-13.

Final election results will be announced by Oct. 17.

Tax levy extension is defeated; new gym may be 'first thing cut'

by Terri Seiwert

Superintendent Paul Lowery says that, "It will be tough to justify building a gymnasium," as a result of the defeat of a Sept. 12 vote to extend the DMACC capital improvement tax levy.

The present tax levy is for a five-year period from 1977-78 through 1981-82. A two-year extension to this was denied by voters at the last regular school board election.

Major improvements to be included in the building project are construction of the new Urban Center; construction of an automotive building presently underway on the Ankeny Campus; and construction of an administrative building and a student services/activities complex, both at the Ankeny location.

Other projects to be financed by the levy include a greenhouse, additional parking, remodeling of some existing buildings, landscaping, and architectural fees.

Voting in favor of the extension were 18,189 residents of the eleven-county district, while 20,180 were opposed.

Des Moines voters were against the levy by a 7,072 to 10,827 vote. Lowery said, "That's what beat us, the Des Moines system."

Lowery said he was also disappointed in some communities outside of the Des Moines area. While Boone voters were in favor of the levy by a 366 to 274 margin, Lowery said he was disappointed that "not more people voted and that it was as even as it was."

He also expected better turnout than a positive vote of 167 to 133 in the Carroll community since the college's extension center there would have benefited from the capital improvement plans.

Regardless of the defeat, no changes will be made in building plans for the new Urban Center, Des Moines, or the automotive building under construction on the Ankeny Campus. Remodeling of Bldg. 14, the auto/diesel building, will also remain unchanged.

Don Zuck, dean of facilities management and campus services, also projected changes as did Lowery. Concerning the gymnasium, Zuck said it would "probably be the first thing cut." He said, "We're short about $2.8 million."

The gymnasium and complete physical education complex have been included in master building plans of the college since 1973. No blueprints have ever been approved for its construction. Apparently now it will be removed from building plans.

Different options of re-adjusting the building project will be discussed by the Institutional Planning Committee. The committee will then make its recommendations to Lowery, who will present them to the Board of Directors for final approval.

Zuck, who is a member of the committee, said he hoped to have the recommendations to Lowery by Oct. 1.

Senate concentrates on increasing voter turnout

by Rich Kaplan

The upcoming student election, to be held the week of Oct. 9-13, was the main topic under consideration at the Student Senate meeting Sept. 13.

Mike Hummel, student body president, said the Senate's objective was to increase student participation in the election process.

Hummel, Gail Van Pelt, Dennis Mabie, and Jim Hell of the election committee forwarded some progressive ideas in an effort to create greater interest in the election. The Senate agreed to allocate $5.00 worth of free advertising supplies to Senate candidates.

In another move designed to generate greater interest, Hummel reported that the Senate is in the process of contracting two voting machines from the Polk County Board of Elections.

These machines will be used only if less than 40 candidates run for office. Hummel said the reason for this was because "the machine only has space for 40 names."

Hummel also said that any club who had not participated in the election process in the past could do so now.

Senate con't. page 3

Senate will select representatives for entertainment conference

 Mabie, vice president of student life and member of the election committee, gave the senators pamphlets that are being distributed to the student body. The pamphlets are designed to answer questions about the election and generate interest in it.

In other Senate business, Senator Kathie Dial expressed a concern over the library policy. Dial said many students have complained about shortened library hours and excessive fine schedules.

Hummel appointed Dial as the chairperson of a newly formed committee to investigate library complaints and policy. Dial is seeking more student input for the committee.

The Student Senate also voted to allocate $500 from the student activity fund to cover the expenses of a DMACC student delegation going to a leadership conference at Springbrook State Park. The conference will be held over the weekend of Oct. 22 and 23.

Don Kerr, student senate advisor, told the Senate of the National Entertainment Conference and Activities Association's upcoming conference from Oct. 12-15.

Hummel appointed Senator Ed Shiller to head a committee to select representatives to the conference. The conference will be held in Marshall, Minnesota and all expenses will be paid from the student activity fund.

Shiller told the Senate any DMACC student interested in going to the conference may apply by submitting an application in the Student Activities office, Bldg. 7.

In a move designed to facilitate the transition from one student government to the next, the Senate is in the process of changing its by-laws. The existing law provides a delay of six weeks between election day and the next meeting.

Hummel said this transition period is too lengthy for smooth government functioning. The Senate adapted a resolution which would cut the transition period to two weeks after the election.

If the Senate votes in favor of the resolution at its next meeting, Sept. 27, the resolution will be adapted into the by-laws.

Incumbent Welin falls; Clark elected to Board of Directors

by Kathy Krafta
 In DMACC's only contested race for a spot on the college Board of Directors, the incumbent was defeated in the Sept. 12 election, while two other incumbents, who were unopposed, were each elected to serve an additional three-year term on the Board.

Fifty-three year old candidate Raymond C. Clark, a resident of Waukee, soundly defeated Harold F. Welin, incumbent in the District II race by a 2,670 to 1,695 vote margin, according to unofficial results. Welin, who lives in Boone, had served on the Board since it was started in 1965.

Des Moines Area Community College Superintendent, Paul Lowrey said that, "Welin had a record of twelve years of good service on the Board," but said he could see no real problems arising as a result of his failing to win re-election.

In speaking of the contest, Lowrey went on to say that he knew Welin had not planned to campaign very aggressively throughout the district, choosing to concentrate his efforts in the Boone area instead, while Clark and his campaign workers covered a larger portion of the district to drum up support.

When commenting on the election results, Clark said, "I was a bit surprised at my margin of victory, although I thought all along that I was going to win."

Despite the fact that it will be his first term on the DMACC Board of Directors, Clark is no stranger to the group. He has regularly attended the monthly meetings for the past two years.

Following the election, the graduate of Tarkio College pointed out, "My first job is to learn to be an effective Board member," remarking that he "would then go from there." However, he did disclose his stand on one major issue, by stating, "There is a definite need for the new Urban Center."

In other election results, Eldon Leonard, 51, former Ankeny mayor and city councilman, was re-elected to the District VI Board seat, which includes Johnston and Ankeny. Murray Goodman also ran unopposed, and will retain his representation of the southwestern area of Des Moines on the Board.

The three, Clark, Leonard and Goodman, will be sworn in during the Board's next regular meeting, Oct. 9, in Boone.

Car pools will get special parking

The Energy Conservation committee has approved distribution of special parking stickers for car pools.

The special stickers will allow car pools to park in the parking spaces closest to the buildings.

Connie Allen, personnel assistant and member of the committee said that the parking privileges still need to be approved by College Council. Final recommendations will then be sent to Superintendent Lowrey for further approval.

Car pool privileges will be for both students and staff.

GET INVOLVED ^{Free} in student government

The Student Government Association Consists of the Following Offices:

PRESIDENT - coordinates and presides over the Student Government Association. A public relations liaison between the administration and the student body.

VICE PRESIDENT OF JUDICIAL AFFAIRS - recommend and implement revisions in the Student Government Association Constitution and By-Laws, and yearly review club constitutions.

VICE PRESIDENT OF MONETARY AFFAIRS - initiates projected budgets, and approves club funding and special building funding.

VICE PRESIDENT OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS - to lobby in the interest of the merged area schools, and do supportive research on legislative projects.

VICE PRESIDENT OF INTERCAMPUS COMMUNICATION - coordinates and plans publicity for all Student Government events.

VICE PRESIDENT OF AUXILIARY SERVICES - provide information and services in such areas as parking, bookstore, child care, transportation, housing, etc.

VICE PRESIDENT OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES - coordinates and plans campus activities (concerts, lectures, plg roasts, etc.)

25 SENATORS - elected at large to present ideas and suggestions to the total student government, and to make decisions on behalf of the student body.

An election will be held to fill these offices for the 1978-79 school year. Petitions for each office can be picked up in the Student Affairs office, Bldg. 7 the week of Sept. 25-29. These petitions must be returned with the required number of signatures on Sept. 29. The election will be held the week of Oct. 9-13 with voting in Bldgs. 2, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 15.

The Student Senate was provided this space, at no cost, to be used at their discretion.

Former graduate sees 'overall top quality' in DMACC learning experiences

To the Editor:

In all fairness, as much as I complained about some of the things the instructors expected me to learn that didn't seem to have anything to do with anything when I was at DMACC:

1. I had fita when Frank Anderson taught us (or tried to, God bless him!) about Gant and Perc charts. Since then, I keep running into them in articles we have to read at ISU and I'm not one of the ones who ask, "What the heck are these things, and what do they mean?"

2. Systems analysis - another grinder we picked up in Human Service courses - necessary. At the Junior level, they assume you know how to use it, and a lot of the students are confused, but not the ones from DMACC.

3. Took a course in Psychometrics. Best feeling in the world in an intimidating course like that to recognize words like Nominal, Ordinal, Interval and know what those puppies mean. Gave me a sense of, "Maybe I'm not completely under water." - again from Human Service courses.

4: Personality theories - tied everything together in a cohesive way so that all the specifics we learned in General and Abnormal Psych became part of a system instead of a bag of unconnected facts that as interesting as they were, were just that. Concepts are important.

I could have probably waited a year, and would have had a lot more examples to cite, but it's already been adequately proven to me that what we get at DMACC is a strong base for where we go, either into Human Services or a university.

I like being able to say I graduated from University of Southern Ankeny. I specified certain courses, but they are only examples of the overall top quality of the school.

I say it with chagrin, (because of my gripes) and with a smile, (because you knew what I didn't) - Thanks for making sure your graduates don't have to compensate for their soft heads with warm hands.

Library policies to be investigated by students

To the Editor:

Students, has your experience with the DMACC library been like an encounter of the third kind?

How many times have you tried to do a research paper and become so frustrated that you use a public library instead?

Do you feel library fees are excessive?

Are the library hours inconvenient with your working hours or family obligations?

Don't despair! The Student Senate is forming a committee to advise the Media Staff of the problems DMACC students have when using the library.

If you have experienced these or any other problems using the DMACC library and would like to be a part of the committee or have input, contact Kathie Dial in Student Activities, ext. 332.

Lowery welcomes old and new students

Each new school year brings with it renewed energies and the freshness of a new start. Welcome to those of you to whom this is a new beginning and a "glad to have you back" to those who are returning.

You will find a qualified faculty, not only in the classroom and labs, but equally qualified resource and support personnel in student services, the library, learning center, student activities, and other related service areas of the college.

Graduates of our vocational programs may be assured there are jobs waiting for them in their area of training. Those enrolled in a college transfer curriculum, with plans to continue at a four year institution, will find an equally high caliber of instructors ready to prepare them for future academic challenges.

Your college experience will be enriched by the friends you make while in school and by your involvement in activities outside the classroom. When you are asked to serve in any of the student senate activities or on college council committees, I challenge you to give it a try -- get involved.

We of the staff and faculty look forward to a fruitful association with you during your stay with us. Have a happy, enjoyable, and educationally profitable year!

As I See It

Dianne Petersen

Too bad about the barn that burned down north of campus. My first inclination on that Friday as I left Bldg. 6 and saw black, billowy smoke, was that Mike Hummel failed his boy scout test and the pig roast fire got out of hand. As it was, an ISU research dairy barn caught fire, burned practically to the ground, that resulted in frightened cows and scalded milk.

I was a little more than worried as we stopped at the gate at Clearwater Beach enroute to the pig roast when one of the Student Senate members gave me a wrist band to wear. The last time I was given one of those hospital type wrist bands, to get the clasp undone, I had to have my tonsils out.

Approximately $3200 was allotted from the Student Senate budget for the pig roast. I can see where most of the money went, rent for the grounds, food, refreshments, the band but they skimped on the paper plates. They weren't Chinest. After filling my plate with the goodies, I got halfway to my spot in the sand and my plate collapsed resulting in potato salad ala-sleeve.

Of the 900 there, the ones I talked to seemed to be having a fairly good time. Many thought the beach was nice, the food good, the weather perfect; but something was missing. Finally the word reached someone of importance and the volley ball nets were erected. Bruce Hann, aptly attired in an Archie Bunker for President T-shirt (there must be a Freudian connotation connected with that) gathered his team and opposed a team under the guidance of Bookstore Joe. The game went on as usual, with some tricky moves on the part of the team captains but I don't think the Taiwanese National team has anything to worry about. Actually I found the most exciting part of the game to be Bookstore Joe's legs. He rolled his pants up to above the knee and there was a great looking pair of legs.

But as I see it, the pig roast came and went again this year. Everything seemed to go as planned, and it didn't rain. The Senate should be commended on that fact. It was the first time in six years they figured out the right day to have the bash.

DMACC proposes phone-in registration

by Tom Mertz

Last spring, a group of Des Moines Area Community College faculty traveled to Joliet Junior College in Illinois to observe a process of phone-in registration in effect there.

Leonard Bengston, vice president of student life at DMACC, made the initial trip to study the program in the fall of 1977.

To be placed in effect at DMACC, the process would have to be approved for other community colleges in Iowa also, with a tentative date set for July 1, 1979. Bengston noted that, "We will have the system or something else within two years."

Phone-in registration, or on line registration, requires the completion of scheduling prior to phoning. Students meet with advisors or counselors and put together class schedules.

After schedules are tentatively drawn up, students then call the registration office and inform the receptionist of requested classes and sections, that are then checked and approved, making corrections if required.

The registration office then sends mailers to students containing total costs and fees figured, with return envelope included for student payment.

The proposed process would eliminate usual waiting lines during mass registrations, with a possibility of ninety percent of the total registration done over telephone.

Bengston said, "The process appears to save money, but it is not safe to say it is unique."

Hospital sponsors smoking clinic

Iowa Lutheran Hospital will sponsor a clinic to help cigarette smokers kick their habit. The clinic is open to the public.

The sessions will begin on Sept. 26 from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. in the Nursing Auditorium. Sessions will be held every Tuesday and Thursday evening for four weeks.

Registration fee is $15.00. Pre-registration is required by calling the Special Services Office, 283-5179.

Drama club to attend Hamlet

by Deb Wirkus

One of the many activities DMACC Drama Club members will be involved in this year is a trip to Minneapolis to see the Guthrie Theatre production of Hamlet this month.

The club will meet Tues., Sept. 26; at 12N in Rm. 209, to discuss plans for the year and to further organize their trip to Minneapolis. The trip is scheduled for Sat., Sept. 30. Student tickets will be $3.75, transportation not included. The meeting will be open to anyone interested in the trip or the club.

Other Drama Club activities for the year include plans for production of some one-acts, a gourmet dinner theatre, and possible involvement in the school's spring musical.

Admitting minimal technical facilities, English instructor and faculty advisor for the club, Rick Chapman, says this has never been a problem in the past, and he doesn't foresee it to be one in the future. "Our biggest resource," says Chapman, "is creative people."

Some of these resources include Dick Yach, economics instructor who played the lead role in Ankeny's Trade-wind Theatre's production of the Odd Couple, and JoAnn Brown, English instructor who worked this summer with the Des Moines Community Playhouse.

Another member of the Drama Club who is presently secretary-treasurer of the club, is Lynda Keller, who has performed at Charlie's Showplace, a dinner theatre in Des Moines.

President of the club, Linda Keller, has also been with the Des Moines Community Playhouse.

Students can be leaders, too

by Gwen Waldron

A Student Leadership Retreat will be held over the weekend of Oct. 27-29 in Guthrie Center at the Conservation Education Center.

The purpose of the retreat is to help students gain leadership skills. The retreat is open to faculty and staff of the Ankeny, Boone, Urban, and Carroll campuses, as well as students.

Consultants and counselors in human related fields will also be there to assist in exercises dealing with feelings, problems, and many other subjects.

WELCOME

STUDENTS AND FACULTY

You Deserve

from hamburgers and sack lunches!

Stop by the Chevis Regale and enjoy a dynamite sandwich and a cool drink.

Thinly sliced meats piled high on your favorite breads not to mention delicious refreshing side orders and an eastern treat called Baklava.

You can enjoy it all for about what you'd spend at the Golden Arches.

So stop by the Chevis Regale or call ahead for quick carry out at 964-9725 after 11 a.m.

Our first Pool Tournament is scheduled for Thursday, September 28. Enter now and draw your slot!
