Beth Newgaard
Editor

Hi, my name is Beth and I will be the editor of the Chronicle this year. As the editor, I will edit all news for content and grammatical structure. I will help David Briggs lay out and design the overall focus of the paper. I will also answer the phone and take messages for Andy Cheers. Don't let the title fool you. Basically, its a grueling job, but someone has to do it.

This will be the second year that I've attended DMACC and worked on the Chronicle. I started as a staff writer and then took the position as International Editor. I am majoring in journalism and plan to receive an Associate of Arts degree here before transferring to the University of Iowa.

I am completing a summer internship at Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. and will be working part-time there during the school year entering numbers into a computer and writing for the electronic bulletin board. I enjoy traveling, although my pocketbook doesn't allow me to get past the Iowa border.

I love listening to the Stones, Jimi Hendrix, Bob Marley, and Led Zeppelin. You can usually hear the stereo blasting on production nights. Don't be alarmed if you hear screeching noises. It will just be me attempting to sing.

That basically sums me up. Oh by the way, I do enjoy reading Victor Hugo, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Emily Dickenson, and Jane Austin. I also take in a couple of cultural events on occasion. I would like to take this opportunity to wish last year's editor, Mark Schneberger, the best of luck at Grand View!!!!

Andrew (Ad Man) Cheers
Advertising Manager

My name is Andrew Cheers and I'm starting my second year of college here at DMACC. I'm transferring to a four-year college next year where I'll continue to pursue a degree in advertising and public relations.

This is going to be an exciting year for DMACC and the Chronicle!

DMACC has been growing rapidly in the past couple of years. The Chronicle reaches students at all four campuses. Compared to other newspapers we offer a more targeted market if you have items to sell. Our rates are affordable for a student's income. If you're reading this, so are other students!

To place an ad call the Chronicle office at 964-6425.

Ann Gourd
International Editor

This past summer I spent a lot of time just goofing around -- if you call hauling children, spring cleaning, planning birthday parties, and gardening just goofing around. Having completed my freshman year here at DMACC this spring, I took a break from school to be "just a mom."

I did take time to study a couple "now" issues. Like, should I feel guilty about moving from a metropolitan area to a suburb or should I just get angry at those of us who treat the suburbs like a refuge from anyone of color? Another question I've asked myself is should I change my diet? Should I eat chemical-laden beef or tasteless unexercised animals in tiny cages, namely chicken? Maybe I should just go vegetarian and eat tofu and get sick because of my allergy to soybeans.

I am having fun with these issues and realize that flight from the cities is a big problem as is the whole issue of animal rights.

A little bit of understanding would go a long way here. If each of us would at least look at the other person as having certain inalienable rights and accept that then maybe we could all get along a little better. What does The Bill of Rights have to do with the International Page? It has something to do with the way we measure those around us. Whether a person be black or white and whether he or she be from America or from another country we should see each person as an individual with rights.

The Chronicle seeks to promote an understanding of international concerns here at DMACC by devoting an entire page in each issue to those global events that affect us all.

Katey Clayton
Photo Editor

I'm starting my second year at DMACC. After receiving an Associate of Arts degree from DMACC, I plan to transfer to a four-year college. I will major in photo journalism or public relations.

I have been interested in photography since my senior year in high school. I have completed photography I and II and have decided to be a part of the Chronicle staff.

I am looking forward to a fun and exciting year with everyone. I hope that all the readers will enjoy it also.

Greetings from the Editor-in-the Chief

The Chronicle is one of Des Moines Area Community College's student publications. A percentage of the money you spend on your activities fee and money from advertising fund the paper.

As a school newspaper The Chronicle will focus on activities and events that directly relate to DMACC. We realize that there are many sides to you -- being a student is just one -- so we will also include news from our community and the world.

The people on the staff have a variety of different personalities and talents. I believe that this is a major asset to both the staff and the readers. I hope that we can bring you a broad range of issues to think about. Although our attributes and abilities are varied, we unite in the same goal to make the paper both educational and entertaining.

We welcome your letters and suggestions: Story tips may be phoned to 964-6425. Send letters c/o The Editor, DMACC Chronicle, Building 3, Room 15, Ankeny Campus. We regret that unsigned submissions cannot be published. We are also pleased to announce that Urban Campus will be represented by a reporting team for the Fall 1990 semester. We openly seek representation from the Carroll Campus and salute our fellow journalists at Boone. Good luck with The Bear Facts.

The First Amendment is on the cover of this issue to remind us of our right to seek and print the truth and our pledge to you, the students of DMACC, that we will do so.

Editors -

Todd L. Lage
Sports Editor

As I was reviewing the past issues I noticed one major flaw. There was very little, if any, sports coverage. Since I am a sports fanatic, this, to me, stuck out and is a major oversight.

This year there will be some changes with the sports coverage in the Chronicle. Over the past year, I have made many new friends and have grown to realize that sports are a major part of the every day lifestyles in which they live. Sports can be very entertaining as well as a healthy part of an individual's routine whether they participate or just kick back and enjoy the action.

There are a few major topics on which we will begin coverage: collegiate football and basketball -- including the important bowls and the final sixty-four and professional football -- basketball and some baseball along with local and DMACC-affiliated sporting events. Now this seems to be quite a lot, but, actually, we will be covering only local collegiate and professional sports such as the Iowa State vs. Iowa football and basketball games and Drake vs. both Iowa State and Iowa. Professional sports would include the baseball, football and basketball playoffs and their championship (season permitting) games, along with periodic updates on the midwestern teams and their fight for the crowns. Professional and collegiate trades, hirings and firings will be briefed depending on their significance to the sporting world.

With all of this and much more on our minds, the most important goal is to give recognition to the "recreation and wellness" and intramural events at DMACC. We believe that participation in healthy, entertaining sporting events must start "at home" with our own students. I sincerely hope that everyone enjoys the "new look" sports section as much as we will enjoy putting it together for you. It will be a major accomplishment if we can make it fly. I have met my fellow staffers and the ambition is there. Welcome back students, and an even bigger welcome to all the new students. I hope your stay here will be as gratifying to you as it has been for me.

I have been asked to give a brief description of myself to the readers. Well, let's see! I love sports (as I have already mentioned) but I decline to list my favorite teams for fear of readers thinking bias. I will let you know, however, that in one of the four major United States leagues (baseball, football, hockey and basketball) I do like a midwestern team and the other three teams all come from the east coast. I love pizza, and partying, and my cat named "Kitty" who is as black as night. I love journalism and am working on my Associate of Arts degree here so I can transfer to the University of Iowa and complete my schooling as a "Hawk."

I especially like good friends whom I can trust and rely on when things get rough. I want to know of any improvements or general comments you, the readers, have at any time. I want this to be a paper that students, faculty, and outsiders look forward to reading.

Finally, I have come up with an idea to help more readers tune into the sports section. In each of the following issues there will be three sports trivia questions. The person at the end of the semester with the most correct answers will win a prize. The prize will be disclosed in our next issue because, frankly, I don't know what it is yet, but I can safely say that it will be worth testing your sports I.Q. If there is more than one winner, one will be selected in a random drawing at semester's end. Some will be easy, some more difficult, but give it a try, you might surprise yourself. More details on September 14.

Enjoy the semester, as much as possible, and continue to read the Chronicle to be informed.

Editorials Editor Helen Kresse will share her ideas in the September 14 issue. Deadline: September 7.

Layout Editor

College is a fairly new thing for me. Although I've taken a lot of "hobby-type" night classes at DMACC, this is my first serious attempt at earning a degree.

My background is in advertising layout and design. Before coming to DMACC, I worked for a medical supply company in Clive, designing catalogs and direct mail promotions. I think my layout and paste up skills will come in handy working on the Chronicle.

When I'm not in class, at school or at work, I enjoy riding a bike, being with family and playing with musical toys.

My work philosophy is: "Plan your work and work your plan -- but don't be afraid to scrap the whole thing and start over if you have a better idea."

Part-Time Work

Going back to school this fall? Looking for a good part-time job that works around your school schedule? Tough, huh?

We may have an opening for you. Make up to $8 per hour. Call us now at 965-0481 or 964-6765.

DMACC Presents 'The Year of Japan' 1990-91

Much has happened in the world since DMACC celebrated Japan in International Year, 1984-85. The full impact of Japan's rise to the top of the world's economic ladder was just beginning to be felt in the United States. Japanese students were being touted as shining examples of educational excellence.

Today, business and education leaders of both countries realize even more that Iowa and Japan have much to offer each other. While we have made great strides in sharing and cooperation, we must continue to learn more of each other's cultures if we are to forge a permanent, mutually beneficial relationship.

Once again, DMACC focuses on Japan. Beginning in September, we will present guest speakers and events each month, and finally, for four days of Japan Week in April, bring a variety of exciting and informative events to DMACC campuses to complete The Year of Japan.

DMACC's goal this year is to:

*Continue to foster understanding of and cooperation with Japan, through education of the DMACC community—students, faculty, and citizens of Central Iowa.

*Continue support of state-wide network of Community Colleges, Sister City and State Commissions, and other educational institutions to increase understanding.

*Establish new relationships and maintain existing linkages between DMACC and educational institutions in Japan.

Join us as often as you can to learn about and enjoy, Japan.
